I. Message from the Chief Justice

Ya'at'eeh, Honorable Delegates of the Navajo Nation Council. I present to you the Judicial Branch of the Navajo Nation 1st Quarter Report for Fiscal Year 2017.

The staff at Alamo Judicial District Court were relocated in July 2016 for their safety and the safety of the public they serve. The relocation was due to facility issues that needed to be addressed. For nearly six months, the staff provided services for the Alamo community from the Peacemaking Program's hogan. I am pleased to report that the Judicial Branch, Facilities Maintenance Department, Safety and Loss Office, the Law and Order Committee and Council Delegate Norman Begay worked together to ensure the facility was safe for re-opening. In January 2017, the Alamo Court, peacemaking and probation staff moved back into the courthouse. We are thankful for all those who assisted in making sure we were able to re-open the court, including peacemaking and probation services, for the Alamo community.

It has been my goal to standardize court services and operations at the judicial districts across the Navajo Nation. One step taken to accomplish this goal was a training session for all judges, staff attorneys and court administrators in Courtroom Practice and Case Flow Management. We completed the three-day training by the National Judicial College in December in Window Rock. Topics included the role of the courts, judicial discretion, enhancing procedural fairness, judicial independence and ethics, court staff ethics, due process and motion practice, jury and bench trials, post-trial issues and building public trust and confidence. As judges and judicial staff, we are committed to continuing and lifelong education.

The Judicial Branch's Information Technology Department is continuing to develop policies so that our courts will be able to implement the e-payment process I discussed in the previous quarters. While we had anticipated start-up of the process early this quarter, we came across some obstacles which delayed our efforts. But be assured that the program will begin as indicated with Kayenta Judicial District being the Court to initiate the procedure. As I reported, this process will allow the courts to accept court fines and fees payment by debit card and through an online website and/or by telephone. This has been a long-time goal for our branch and I ask that we all be patient as we work out the final details before we roll out the process. This is a first for our Navajo Nation courts and we must ensure that all measures of accountability are in place before we begin.

Drafting of the Tribal Action Plan document has begun. As I reported in the previous quarter, the Judicial Branch obtained a grant to create a plan to address issues within our criminal justice system. In 2016, we partnered with the Executive Branch to create a comprehensive plan that identifies our most pressing issues and how we plan to address them. Two work sessions were held in the first quarter of FY 2017 where team members developed problem statements, goals and objectives and began the drafting of the actual document. That document will eventually come before the legislators for approval. The document will also assist the Navajo Nation in obtaining external funds to address the identified issues.

Associate Justice Eleanor Shirley and I have been attending monthly criminal justice summits to share common concerns among the Judicial Branch, Division of Public Safety and Department of Justice and to seek solutions. From these ongoing meetings, planning for a Public Safety Summit for the Navajo Nation has taken place and the summit has been announced. We will be joining DPS and DOJ to ensure that the Judicial Branch does its part to ensure that our criminal justice system is the most efficient and effective it can be.

As I continue to report in each quarter, we are still in need of at least five trial judges and an associate justice to address our heavy caseloads. I am pleased to announce that there appear to be two applicants for the District Court Judge positions, three applicants for the Chief Justice position and 1 applicant for the Associate Justice position. I am also pleased to announce that three probationary judges will be making their way to permanency in this quarter and the next. You will shortly have for consideration the permanency consideration for the Hon. Cynthia Thompson, one of our most noted and respected jurists. I ask the Navajo Nation Council to give serious, favorable consideration to Judge Thompson's permanency and those to come in the near future. Each has gone through extensive training, a wealth of probationary term experience and community support. These appointments are absolutely crucial to the viability and integrity of the Navajo Nation justice system. I thank each of you for all the assistance and support you have provided for our Branch operations through the years.

We at the branch continue to look to the future and what we leave behind for future generations, whether it is through the development of a Tribal Action Plan, encouraging our youth to consider study of our laws and governmental system or through education of students in Diné Lifeway Teachings. We ask that all of our leaders join us in our efforts to educate our people on the Navajo Nation justice system, our laws and our sovereignty.

With due respect,

Acting Chief Justice Allen Sloan

III. Vision, Mission and Strategic Goals

VISION

It is our vision that the present judicial system, consisting of an adversarial-style tribal court system modeled on Anglo courts, a peacemaking system modeled on Diné original dispute resolution methods, and Probation and Parole Services, will fully embody the values and processes of the Navajo People, including family and clan-centered Navajo values. Our justice system as a whole will truly reflect the heart and soul of the Diné. It will be one that the People can recognize as their own and fully participate in the spirit of nábináhaazláago.

MISSION

The Judicial Branch will provide stability in the Navajo Nation government by providing court, peacemaking, and probation and parole services, to adjudicate cases, resolve disputes, rehabilitate individuals and families, restore harmony, educate the public, agencies, services and other governments in Diné bi beenahaz' áanii, and protect persons and property pursuant to Navajo Nation laws, customs, traditions, and applicable federal laws. Pursuant to Diné bi beenahaz' áanii, the Judicial Branch will carefully develop a justice system that fully embodies the traditional values and processes of the Navajo People.

STRATEGIC GOALS

- One:* As the Navajo Nation court, peacemaking, and probation and parole system, we will ensure the continued provision of efficient, fair, and respectful judicial services.
- Two:* We will ensure access to the judicial system by the public.
- Three:* We will address the infrastructure needed to maximize partnerships across branches, agencies, and communities.
- Four:* We will develop a judicial system in accordance with Diné bi beenahaz' áanii that fully incorporates Navajo values and processes.
- Five:* We will address facilities needs.

V. Administrative Office of the Courts

A. Archiving

1. Accomplishments of objectives set the previous quarter

The information data technician prepared, organized, and scanned 12,749 documents/files, including:

- Office of the Chief Justice: 2009, 2010, 2012, 2013, 2014, and 2015 complaints and correspondences
- Judicial Branch Human Resources: 2015 Timesheet Records
- Tuba City Judicial District: Inactive 2006 Traffic Civil Records
- Dził Yijiin Judicial District: Inactive 2013 Criminal Records

The information data technician assisted Chinle, Window Rock, Tuba City, Shiprock, and Crownpoint Judicial Districts with retrieval of archived microfilmed records. The Judicial Branch has only one machine at the Administrative Office of the Courts in Window Rock to view and print records. District personnel travel to or send their films to Window Rock to retrieve and print records. 54 microfilmed cartridges were received from five judicial districts to print records requested by the public.

The information data technician assisted with saving (backup) scanned court records onto DVDs for safe keeping for Office of the Chief Justice.

The information data technician assisted IT personnel with maintaining an inventory of laptops for loaners.

The information data technician assisted IT personnel by receiving and processing IT service requests submitted by the judicial districts and Judicial Branch programs.

2. Objectives to be accomplished in the next quarter

To complete scanning closed 2006 traffic civil records for Tuba City Judicial District.

To complete scanning closed 2013 criminal records for Dził Yijiin Judicial District.

To receive IT service requests from Judicial Districts, Supreme Court, Office of the Chief Justice, Probation Services, Peacemaking Program, and Administrative Office of the Courts.

To provide assistance, as needed, to the Judicial Branch IT Section, Judicial Administration, Fiscal Services, Human Resources, and Office of the Chief Justice.

To perform other duties as assigned.

B. Facilities

Alamo Court Building. Judicial Branch personnel requested NN Risk Management to reconsider denial of claims for funds to replace the roof and eradicate mold in building. Request 1 was denied. Request 2 was denied. Judicial Branch personnel and Law and Order Committee (LOC) met at Alamo with chapter officials and council delegate Norman Begay to discuss options to fund the roof repair/replacement and mold eradication on December 12, 2016, and to hear concerns from the court and community. LOC met December 19, 2016, in Window Rock to receive report from NN Risk Management on denials. LOC decided to meet again in 30 days to receive an update on actions taken to fix facility issues. Judicial Branch consultant Edward B. Martin made contact with the company that constructed the building. The company is researching the roof warranty and will advise action to take to fix the roof. On December 19, 2016, Facilities Maintenance and Safety & Loss Program took new air and surface samples in the interior of the building for presence of mold and other pollutants after Facilities Maintenance did some roof work and no more leaks reported by the custodian. Air and surface samples were analyzed by a lab. Based on the results, NN Risk Management and NN Safety & Loss issued a written statement on December 27, 2016, that the building is safe for staff to move back in. This information was shared with management for Alamo/To'hajiilee. Waiting to receive word that staff have moved back into building.

Alamo Peacemaking Hogan. Ed Martin inspected the hogan on December 12, 2016. Water and sewer are not connected from community source to hogan. Court clerk Caroline Padilla said there has been discussions with the local chapter and other entities but no action implemented to provide connections for water and waste water. The hogan was designed by peacemaking to have a dirt floor. Now the request of the staff is to install a concrete floor so dust does not affect the health of staff and public. Office technician Raquel Hurley obtained a price quote for delivery of concrete to be poured. Labor to finish the floor was not included, so Ms. Padilla will check to see if the chapter can provide laborers to finish the floor.

Shiprock Justice Center. Need to get people moving to encourage Navajo Nation to secure BIA funds, issue bond financing or appropriate NN funds for construction of the court, corrections and law enforcement facilities. This project is on the NNC approved 5-year plan (CAP-18-14) which will expire in 2018. The Shiprock Planning Committee needs to review the project to determine readiness for construction. A meeting was scheduled for October 11, 2016, in Shiprock, but it was postponed and no date has been set for the next meeting. Mr. Martin spoke with the Shiprock court administrator to ask her to get the Justice Center Planning Committee to push for funding.

Window Rock Judicial District Modular Building. Before court services can be provided in this building, electrical power needs have to be evaluated and, if necessary, upgraded to provide adequate electrical power for operation of equipment. Judicial Branch carpenters are finishing interior work.

Administrative Office of the Courts/NN Supreme Court Site

- On August 24, 2016, a written request was submitted to Sharon Pinto, Navajo BIA Area Office, to relinquish land for the Administrative Office of the Courts and Supreme Court modular buildings. The site was BIA Trust Land.
- On October 18, 2016, the site was relinquished to the Navajo Nation.
- On October 31, 2016, relinquishment of the trust land was officially accepted by NN President Russell Begaye.
- On November 10, 2016, Mike Halona with the Navajo Land Department assigned the land to the Judicial Branch Administrative Office of the Courts/Supreme Court.
- The Judicial Branch's request for a right of way to run utilities for electricity, water, and sewer to the modular buildings was approved.
- Construction of a concrete retaining wall was necessary to increase the parking area available for access to the buildings. On October 17, 2016, wooden frames were erected for the wall.

On December 20, 2016, concrete was poured into the wooden frame and will take 30 days to cure before the site can be filled with dirt. NN Facilities Maintenance is the oversight for the project.

- NTUA and NECA are ready to install underground water/waste water lines as soon as a contract is approved. A draft contract was sent to the NTUA Legal Department. After the contract is returned with required supporting documents, the contract will be submitted to the Navajo Nation Section 164 Process for review.

Ramah Court Rodents. Williams Professional Cleaning Services inspected the building after staff detected foul order. During inspection of the building, no signs of rodents were detected in the building. The custodian had already removed dead rodents from attic where the odor was coming from.

Dził Yijiin Judicial District. The Whippoorwill court building incurred water damage. Immediately after damage discovery, the court administrator notified NN Risk Management, NN Facilities Maintenance, NN Safety & Loss, and NN OSHA. NN Risk Management Program immediately hired a company to remediate building damages. Staff are temporarily in the Pinon Chapter facility.

Pueblo Pintado. Remediation to interior of the building is in progress and is estimated to be complete by January 20, 2017. Efforts to temporarily employ a certified electrician to finish connection of electricity to the building from the power source has not been successful so far.

To'hajilee Roof. Contact has been made with the company that constructed the building to discuss roof repair without cost to the Judicial Branch based on a roof warranty.

Tuba City Justice Center Warranty Issues. The court administrator and a representative of the construction company that built the justice center identified some warranty issues which need to be resolved. The construction company has agreed to resolve warranty issues.

Dilkon Court Building. NN Facilities Maintenance was informed of a plant growing in the wall of the women's restroom. Need to find out how the problem was resolved.

Chinle Justice Center. Construction of the Chinle Justice Center is finished and the Center has been dedicated. Personnel have not moved into the court or police department. Some deficiencies are being corrected. Brown & Associates will inspect buildings to satisfy NN requirements for occupancy. After Brown & Associates completes inspections, a request will be submitted to BIA Albuquerque to inspect court and police department buildings so certificates of occupancy can be issued. Department of Corrections has been accepted for BIA inspection, but has not been scheduled. Document preparation will be accomplished by the construction company as soon as Brown & Associates completes inspections. On December 13, 2016, Edward B. Martin attended a Law and Order Committee meeting in Albuquerque at KPMG. This was an opportunity to address concerns for scheduling inspections of the Chinle facilities. BIA officials agreed to assist to get the inspections accomplished so staff can occupy the buildings. This assistance should speed up the process to schedule the BIA inspections.

VI. Navajo Nation Peacemaking Program

A. Accomplishments of objectives set the previous quarter

The Peacemaking Program staff responded well to the challenges of an expanding workload and reduced resources. Overall, training for youth apprentice peacemakers has been very successful, even though there was some confusion about the availability and amount of funds for some students. Several students have come forward and requested training whether funds are available or not. Curriculum training is continuing in schools and is well received.

For the first time in several years, the Peacemaking Program met or exceeded all of its quarterly performance criteria goals. In addition, the Peacemaking Program is advancing its administrative goals:

1. Seek grant funding for programs. During December 2016, the program identified and applied for a grant that will support youth education, prevention, and intervention services for another three years. Grant administrator Raquel Chee is to be commended for her assistance in this effort.
2. Successful completion of grant-funded work. The PYEAP grant has been closed out, and the final report completed. The report shows that all tasks under the grant were completed, and several of the most significant goals were exceeded. The report includes examples of traditional teaching tools and curriculum, and acknowledges that 100 youth graduated from apprenticeship training; the goal set was 40.
3. The program applied for an extension of the TCIP grant to fully utilize the remaining funds. The extension of time will allow use of approximately $50,000 that has not been expended under the grant and to complete set goals.
4. Use community-based peacemakers. Community-based peacemakers are being engaged to handle more peacemaking sessions and counseling. During the first quarter, there was 34 instances of using community-based peacemakers in over 120 service sessions.
5. Conduct most work at or near peacemaking facilities. The program no longer has tribal vehicles or money for POV mileage reimbursement. This budget loss affects staff across the Judicial Branch and is a key reason for changes in our workstyle. Traditional program specialists are adapting to this change.
6. Focus on youth. Over 60 young people received curriculum training and other direct culturally-based services even with reduced funding for this work.
7. Maintain our professionalism. The Peacemaking Program is adapting to changed priorities and reporting. Staff members are finding ways to collaborate and support each other, and participating in planning and organizing revised reporting formats and content to better reflect the program's shifting role and responsibilities.
8. Advance our mission. Staff are engaging in work to meet their daily responsibilities, but also keeping the vision of peacemaking in mind. During the first quarter, staff worked with Navajo Nation-wide service providers on policies and program approaches to improve domestic violence, addiction, and suicide. The Peacemaking Program brought traditional teachings and values into the discussions. Similarly, the Judicial Conduct Commission sought input from the Peacemaking Program regarding traditional approaches for resolving disputes and asked questions. Discussions with legislative officials regarding changes to Title 25 and the role and scope of peacemaking was also part of the mission to advance peacemaking as a core government function. Most traditional program specialists had opportunities to discuss Navajo traditional culture and peacemaking in chapters and community or educational groups during this quarter.

The Peacemaking Program prioritized work based on the goals set by the Navajo Nation Council and the Judicial Branch. These are some examples from the judicial districts:

Dilkon Judicial District. The traditional program specialist was involved in 13 peacemaking sessions to reduce the workload for the Judicial Branch and provide traditional problem resolution alternatives with peacemakers. Availability of prevention services in schools was improved by presenting a Memorandum of Agreement (MOU) to school board members at Winslow Residential Hall, Inc., Seba Dalkai Community School, Dilkon Community School, Inc., and Greasewood Community School. Monthly visits are made to the schools where educational materials and Life Value Engagement sessions are provided.

Dzil Yijiin Judicial District (Pinon). The traditional program specialist made weekly contacts with inmates at Chinle Correctional Center and worked with families in the area. His workload was impacted by lack of equipment and water damage to the chapter house.

Kayenta Judicial District. The traditional program specialist prioritized his work to address the council-adopted priorities. During this quarter, the TPS facilitated six peacemaking sessions for cases that would have otherwise been heard in the court and brought in community-based peacemakers. Every other Friday, he presented Youth Education Apprenticeship Curriculum to eighth grade students at Dennehotso Boarding School and awarded certificates of completion to students in November. Other student services included Life Value Engagement sessions for students who are, or are soon to be, parents themselves, or who have truancy or delinquency issues. Collaboration with other agencies included the San Juan School District Student Advocacy Agency meeting where discussions included truancy, bullying, teenage pregnancy and parenting, substance abuse, domestic violence, and sexual abuse, among others.

Window Rock Judicial District. Heavy caseloads and time demands can be put into perspective when a family is reunited through peacemaking. An ongoing effort with a family of five children and young parents is showing results. The family was referred from Division of Social Services where they didn't meet the threshold of dependency or neglect, but had extreme family discord and disharmony. Although they struggled through separation of siblings and parents, the family is now back under one roof. The children are doing well in school and now begin to feel a sense of belonging and security. Much work has been done with the parents through traditional counseling, LVE, and approaching topics they have had difficulty working out themselves. After much blaming and bitterness amongst extended family members, family support is showing improvement.

Central Program Staff. The program coordinator has been active in policy work, outreach to other agencies and colleagues, and training. Collaboration with other agencies has focused on the policy and program advancement for suicide, domestic violence, and substance abuse. Outreach has focused on changes to peacemaking's role and responsibilities under proposed legislative changes. The traditional researcher supported a new TPS in Chinle with training, Life Value Engagement and other services, and administrative orientation. He also researched a traditional law question for a judge.

B. Objectives to be accomplished in the next quarter

To refine work plan and closeout process for TCIP grant.

To work with the Chief Justice and others to advance peacemaking as a separate branch of government.

To address issues that constrain productivity due to current budget authority.

To improve relationships with judges, educators, and service providers in order to better utilize peacemaking services.

To provide education on Diné Fundamental Law and traditional teachings.

To coordinate trainings/orientations on peacemaking for peacemakers, Judicial Branch staff, and community members.

VII. Navajo Nation Probation Services

A. Accomplishments of objectives set the previous quarter

The NN Probation Services management team compiled and finalized its proposed FY2017 general funds budget. The budget was submitted along with an unmet needs budget. The budget was approved; however, the unmet needs funding was vetoed by President Russell Begaye. This will result in a tight budget and frugal spending in FY2017. The chief probation officer attended oversight committee and OMB budget hearings in support of NN Probation Services and the Judicial Branch.

The PPS management team held three management meetings during this quarter. The team discussed probation issues, personnel issues, projects, and tasks, and planned events and training for staff for the purpose of program enhancement. The team also discussed conducting field visits by the supervisors in November 2016.

The revision of the Standard Operation Procedural manual is a continuing effort. The content of the manual is continuously changing with daily operations and situations that occur within the program. The group met a couple of times this quarter to work on the revisions and has been in communication via telephone and email with To'hajiilee/Alamo staff attorney Alisha Thompson who is reviewing the current revisions before work sessions resume.

The efforts of the Justware implementation for the probation module also continued. The schematics of the overall probation case management, uniformity, and statistics are still in the programming stages and hope to have the module complete this winter. The issue of e-payment has been discussed and will be put on the table during management meeting to discuss policy and procedure protocols.

B. Other significant accomplishments

Probation Services staff from Window Rock and Chinle participated in the New Path “What’s Happening Now” efforts being held in select districts. The community forum began in Tuba City mid-July 2016 and a second forum was held in Window Rock on September 29, 2016. The event was successful and good participation by the community and service providers. Presentations were conducted by local service providers and questions asked by concerned community members about the reentry process.

Probation Services filled a vacant probation officer position in the Shiprock Judicial District. New hire Calvin Silas started employment on July 25, 2016, and is serving his 90-day introductory period. Senior probation officer JoAnn Holyan-Terry and chief probation officer Lucinda Yellowhair conducted an orientation duties and responsibilities to Mr. Silas. The senior probation officer reported that Mr. Silas has adapted fairly well and is working on some cases.
